

LA Clippers, MeiGray Sign Three-Year Game-Worn Jersey Deal

The L.A. Clippers and MeiGray Group today announced a new program that will offer fully-authenticated, game-worn Clippers jerseys for the next three seasons, starting with the 2019-20 NBA season.

MeiGray, which directs the NBA & MeiGray Game-Worn Authentication Program, will be working directly with the Clippers to offer jerseys worn by Patrick Beverley, Paul George, Kawhi Leonard, Lou Williams and the rest of the Clippers roster.

“At the Clippers, our fans come first, and we’re proud to partner with MeiGray Group to bring Clippers memorabilia directly to Clipper Nation,” said Scott Sonnenberg, Chief Global Partnerships Officer, L.A. Clippers.

“It’s only fitting that one of the NBA’s most exciting franchises, with its dynamic roster, chose the Sports Memorabilia Hobby’s premier game-worn authentication company to partner with,” said MeiGray President Barry Meisel. “We expect to bring the best jerseys from the team’s best moments this season to collectors in Southern California and around the world. Here’s to a great season with the Clippers.”

The Clippers and MeiGray will be offering Clipper Nation the opportunity to pre-order these extremely coveted game-worn jerseys in one of the five of styles the Clippers will wear throughout the NBA regular season. Every jersey offered will come directly off the court, be fully authenticated by MeiGray, and sold throughout the season, along with a Clippers-MeiGray Letter of Authenticity.

The program will also offer special sets of Clippers game-worn jerseys for bid throughout the season at NBAAuctions.com.
